HEAT CONTINUES TO AID

The Agricultural Extension Service said cotton generally continued to improve" in Mississippi after another week of hot, dry weather.? In some areas, the service said corn is beginning to need rain. Specific areas: Marion County: Hot Wether and winds have dried out areas where no rain has fallen. Choctaw County; Hill corn is showing signs of needing rain. Calhoun County: Late planted corn and grain sorghum need rain; hay is excellent; cotton is spotted-good in some sections and grassy in others. Jones County:: Practically all watermelons have been marketed; rain is needed for young corn and vegetables. Lincoln County; here will be more and higher quality hay than in recent years. Attala County: Showers helped crops. Lee County: Crops continue to improve..

About $173 million dollars' worth of chemicals will be needed to compound the estimated 594 million gallons of lubricating oils
